Since the Examiner failed to address claim 8 in the previous office action, a new non-final action is herein addressed below.

Status of the claims is as follows:

Claim 10 has been cancelled; and Claims 1-9 are herein addressed below.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 6, 7, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Loper ('212,242). Loper (212,242) discloses a wall opening fall protection support system comprising a pair of brackets having a planer mounting portion (D), a support portion (F) forming a bottom of a "U", a retaining portion (G) joined to the support portion (F), an engagement portion (E), and a rail (C).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Loper (212,242). All of the elements of the instant invention are discussed in detail above except providing the mounting portion with a 2"x4" or a 4"x4" opening. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the opening of the mounting portion of Loper with a 2"x4" or a 4"x4" opening since 2"x4" or a 4"x4" wood studs are common in construction and would have been a matter of design choice to provide common and standard dimensions in the opening of the mounting portion to accept standard size dimension wood studs.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. U.S. patent to Calle et al. (6,481,252 B2) discloses a bracket system similar to that of the applicant's invention.

The applicant's arguments have been considered but are not deemed persuasive. It appears that the applicant's arguments are more limiting than that of the claims. The applicant argues that element D of Loper is not substantially planar. The Examiner disagrees. As one can see in the Figures and specifically, Figures 2 and 3, element D has a substantially planar outer surface, which reads on, the claims as recited by the applicant. Furthermore, the applicant argues that element F is also not substantially planar. Again, the Examiner disagrees since element F of Loper has substantially planar along several sides which reads on the applicant's recited claims.
